CLIMATE unsurpassed, winter or summer; perennial sunshine; no wind, no fog, no snow or ice; altitude about 1500 feet.

CLEAR LAKE CITY is surrounded by Mineral Springs and Summer resorts. Thousands of people who could go anywhere, choose this locality every year in which to spend the summer. It is delightful, summer or winter.

THE SPORSTMAN'S PARADISE; the best hunting and fishing in California. Quail, dove, pigeons and deer are found in great abundance, while the mountain streams are stocked with trout and the Lake is full of fish.

THE SOIL is fertile and will raise anything—flowers, fruits, vegetables and grain. A man can raise vegetables and fruit enough on two or three lots at Clear Lake City to support a family, on account of the fact that the climate is so equable that he can raise at least two or three crops a year, The townsite is mostly level, partly rolling, and none of it is steep or rocky. It is on the line of Two Projected Electric Railroads.

After the electric roads are completed these lots will be worth $100 and upwards.

THE BEST REASON of all is that $10 gets you a deed and certificate of title to a lot in Clear Lake City, free and clear of all incumbrances. It is all you pay—no future payments.

DEATH OF COUNTY OFFICIAL

William Mooney, Desperado, Makes Frequent Escapes In Spite of Sheriff's Handcuffs.

[In this issue is continued a chronicle of some of the events of 1861.]

In the latter part of September, a case of assault and robbery occurred in the northern portion of the county which, although somewat remarkable for its brutality, was later more particularly distinguished by the repeated and apparently boldly accomplished jail breaks of the culprit and his eventual eluding of the pursuit of the officers. On Monday, the 16th, just after James Casey, the Constable of the First Township, had eaten his dinner and left the house, Mrs. Casey stepped out of doors for a few moments, and upon her return found a man in the house engaged in searching her bureau. As soon as Mrs. Casey entered, the man abandoned his work and attacked her, following her into the yard and beating her until she agreed to give him what money there was in the house, which amounted to about $80. Information of the attack upon his wife was carried to Mr. Casey by two small children who were in the house at the time, and gathering a posse of the neighbors he returned to his home, and then started in search of the culprit, who had disguised himself by blackening his face. After a hunt of several hours the miscreant was captured and taken back to the house where he was kept over night. In the morning he was brought to this city and lodged in jail. After his capture it was found that the man's name was William Mooney, and that a short time previous he had worked for Casey, thus becoming familiar with the place and the fact that money was generally kept in the house. When captured Mooney had in his possession the money taken from Mrs. Casey, as well as other articles and money which lead to the belief that he was a professional thief. Just a week after Mooney had been placed ih jail he made his first escape. About 7 o'clock in the evening the jailer took him his supper and left him eating it and apparently enjoying the meal. A half-hour later the jailer returned and found that Mooney had departed without the formality of saying good-bye. Mooney made his escape through the back door, which had apparently been pried open with an iron bar. A reward of $50 was offered by the Sheriff for his recapture. Mooney's freedom lasted no longer than the term of his incarceration, for on Monday of the following week he was captured by Deputy County Clerk T. W. Lathrop in San Francirco. Lathrop was visiting in San francisco for a few days and was stopping at the American Hotel. As he stepped into the yard in the rear of the building he encountered Mooney and at once recognized the man and took him into custody, and he was returned to the jail here—only to remain for a short time however. Although kept heavily ironed since his recapture, on November 4th Mooney again made his escape, going out of the jail by way of the back door as in the first instance. This time he carried with him a fine pair of the Sheriff's handcuffs, which he had been wearing. The means used in making the second escape were a mystery, as the man and his cell had been carefully searched every few days. Another prisoner was with Mooney at the time, but he did not notice the escape for some five minutes after the man had gone, when he managed to attention of a boy and sent word to the Sheriff. Although a reward of $100 was offered for the capture of the desperado and dilligent search was made for him, he apparently was never recaptured. Apparently the jail suffered in its reputation because of these escapes of Mooney and ceased to be regarded as a secure place for the purpose for which it was intended. A few weeks after the escape the Supervisors advertised for proposals to repair the jail "so as to secure persons from breaking out."

On October 19th County Treasurer Burns John, who had been in office but two months, met with an accident which resulted in his death after four weeks of suffering. At the time of the accident, Mr. John was engaged in piling lumber on a lot where he intended shortly to build. For some reason the pile toppled over, striking him in the back and paralizing the entire body. He also receivd a severe blow on the head, but this appeared to have no serious effect as his mind remained perectly clear to the last, but apparently the pinal scolumn was fractured. A few days after the accident he made the appointment of W. F. Stambaugh as his deputy to keep up the business of the office during his illness. The injury however proved fatal, and after lingering until November 14th Mr. Johns died. At the time of his death he was 38 years of age and he left a widow and four young children At a meeting of the Supervisors held November 19, John Ames was elected to fill the remainder of the term as County Treasurer.

In the latter part of November a postoffice was established at San Mateo, Tony Oaks, proprietor of the San Mateo Hotel was appointed, as the Postmaster, and the office was located in the hotel.

Thanksgiving Day of this year was made notable by the preaching of the first Thanksgiving Sermon ever delivered in this county. The service was held in this city, with a large congregation, and the sermon was preached by Rev. J. S. Zelle, the resident minister.

CITY IMPROTEMENT IS CONSIDERED

Council Devotes Much Time To Consideration of Public Requirements.

CIGAR MEN ASK CONCESSIONS

Will Adopt New System of Keeping City Records---County Road May Soon be Improved.

The greater portion of the time of the Trustees at the session of the City Council last Monday evening was devoted to a general discussion of the businees of the town, and as a result but few matters were brought up for final disposition. Owing to the fact that City Attorney Mansfield had not been able to complete his work on the ordinarces referred to him, no changes in the laws wore introduced. Evidently the cigar deales, who depend to some considerable extent on the slot-machine as a business adjunct, had expected the Council to move in its threatened action against these devices and were prepared to plead for some mitigation of the drastic measures outlined in the resolution of the previous week. For this purpose they had enlisted the services of attorney H. A Kincaid, who made a strong plea in their behalf. In his statements to the Board, made at the opening of the session, Mr. Kincaid called attention to the fact that the so called "cigar-machines" had been declared by a decision of the Supreme Court not to gambling devices under the law. He argued that the main use of the machines as used by the cigar dealers was an aid in the sale of their goods. While acting as City Attorney Mr. Kincaid had prepared an ordinance regulating these machines, a copy of which he presented to the Board and asked that it be given consideration before any law was passed. Although it was announced that no ordinance on the subject was ready for introduction, the question was given some little discussion, during which it developed that there was no disposition on the part of of the Trustees to deal over harshly with the cigar men, and that if the law was passed they would be given time to adjust themselves to its conditions.

The garbage ordinance, introduced at a previous meeting, was finally adopted. The new law goes into effect on the 1st of next month, and it is expected that before that time the Council will have made arrangements for the gathering and disposition of the garbage.

Chairman Merrill informed the Board that during the past week he had again been in conferrence with the officials of the Southern Pacific Rajlway, and had been assured that all crossings were to be graveled to the full width of streets and maintained in good condition. Mr. Merrill also stated that he had been informed that within a short time the Railway Company will commence placing rock ballast on their tracks between San Jose and San Francisco, and at that time would be prepared to make such changes in the grades of their tracks as might be desired. In order to be prepared with suggestions along this line and to intelligibly fix new official grades the Trustees will make a personal survey of the situation during the week.

Trustee Brown stated that during the latter portion of the week he had been approached by the representative af a San Francisco daily paper with another proposal to advertise the city. In view of past unsatisfactory experience along this line, he had given the proposition no encouragement and did not favor the idea of spending public money for this purpose without some guarantee of a satisfactory return. With this view the other Trustees coincided and no action was taken.

Unless all signs fail, proceeding for the improvement of the County Road will be commenced within a short time. Discussion of this subject was introduced by Chairman Merrill, who stated that he had been approached by a number of the owners of property with inquiries as to when this work could be done. It seemed to be the general feel of the Trustees that the condition of the street would not admit of much further dealy. It was also considered useless wait upon the anticipated State aid, as even should the State highway bond proposition be sanctioned by popular vote, which is far from certain, it would be several years befor this portion of the word would be reached.

Clerk Plump and Attorney Mansfield were instructed to investigate the cost of an introduction of the loose-leaf book method of keeping city records.

An adjourned meeting will be held on Monday evening, when it is probable that contracts for street sweeping and sprinkling will be let.

Frank Fitzpatrick, having completed a course in the business college, has entered the Redwood City Commercial Bank, having determined to follow a business career.

Will Have New Ball Grounds.

The management of the local ball club are perfecting arrangements by which it will be possible to play the game in enclosed grounds. The grounds now being used are not at all fitted upon which to play or field the game as it ought to be, and the constant fear of a broken limb or injury to the player is enough to discourage what might have proven a brilliant play.

The field of the Tacoma Mill Co. next to the lumber yards has been selected as the best yet to be had.

Tight board fences will be built and gates to accomodate spectators, buggies and automobiles will be installed.

A comfortable grand stand will be completed, faced with wire screen so as to protect the onlookers and the new improvements will fill a long felt want so far as suitable ball grounds are concerned..

Last Sunday the Mayfield team was given a severe trouncing aby our local lads to the tune of 10 to 1. Invincible Robert was the cause of it, back of him every man in the team played the game to win and a prettier nine innings of baseball has not been witnessed in Redwood. this year.

Tomorrow the Reliance club of Oakland and the local team will cross bats, and a lively contest is anticipated. To those who want to see a good game let us whisper "bring a quarter and buy."

DOROTHY'S MISSION.

By EMILY S. WINDSOR.

Cyril Moore, lawyer, was not noted for the suavity of his manner nor the mildness of his glance. Both were unusually severe this morning, and he was not inclined to deal gently with his disturber. He had been interrupted in the consideration of an important matter, but Dorothy Dale's brown eyes never flinched before his deep set gray ones.

"Please, may I talk to you a few minutes?" she asked in her soft little voice.

"I am very busy," he returned, "and gave orders that I was not to be disturbed."

"The elevator boy showed me your office, and there was no one in the other room, and so I came in," said Dorothy.

The lawyer made an impatient movement, mentally resolving upon the censure which Wilson should receive for leaving the entrance to the office unguarded.

Two little red spots had crept into Dorothy's face, but she went on bravely.

"You see," she began, "I"—

The lawyer again moved impatiently and frowned, but his small visitor persisted.

"It is so important, you see." There was a keen note of anxiety in her voice, but the brown eyes never wavered. And what was there in their depths which brought to the lawyer's mind a vague memory and made him look at his visitor with a stirring of interest, then hesitate and finally push aside the papers over which he had been absorbed and say shortly:

"What is it? I can give you a few minutes."

"Oh, thank you," said Dorothy politely. "It is about that position in the Hilton school."

Cyril stared in surprise. What could this little, old fashioned girl have to say about that? It would be interesting to know. He pushed his papers farther away and leaned back in his seat.

"Sit down," he said, pointing to a chair. Dorothy obeyed with a grave "Thank you," settling herself comfortably in the chair, which was so high that her feet were quite a distance from the ground. Her blue felt sailor hat was pushed back on her head, and several soft brown rings of her hair had found their way to her forehead. She lifted her clear eyes to the lawyer, and again their depths vaguely stirred his heart.

"You see, auntie lost all her money in Boston, and so we had to come here to live. Auntie owns a little house here, and she says that is better than nothing. And yesterday Mrs. Pruden told her they wanted a teacher in that school and that auntie must try to get it right away."

"Oh, indeed," ejaculated Cyril.

"You see," she went on in a confidential tone, "auntie knows a lot of things. She belonged to ever so many clubs in Boston. Every one says that she is so clever."

Dorothy paused to see if the lawyer was properly impressed with the importance of her aunt's acquirements.

"Yes," said Cyril politely.

"Mrs. Pruden told auntie that you could let her teach that school, but last evening a letter came from Mr. White in Boston to say auntie must come to see him right off. You see, he attends to all of her business. So she had to go on the early train this morning." Here Dorothy stopped, out of breath.

Cyril uttered an interrogative "Yes?"

Dorothy smiled up at him. "And I was afraid she might be too late when she came back, and then it will be such a nice surprise for her when she does come back for me to tell her I came to see you about it."

"Then she doesn't know what you are doing?" queried Cyril.

"Oh, no. I waited till she was gone."

"Where do you live?" questioned Cyril.

"Over on Rose Crescent."

The lawyer did not recognize the locality, but there had been many changes in the old town during those years in which he had been absent from it.

"Auntie will be a splendid teacher. You see, she's so sweet. Won't you please try her?"

In her eagerness Dorothy arose and stood beside Cyril, placing her hand in its woolen mitten on his arm.

The little action thrilled him. A sudden realization of the loneliness of his life smote him, and again the child's brown eyes awoke that memory.

"Please, won't you?" urged Dorothy, with an unconscious pressure of his arm.

Cyril looked down into the eager face with an expression in his own that few had seen there during later years.

"I'll see what I can do. I must know more of her qualifications. I mean," he explained kindly, "if she knows all the things that the person who teaches in that school must know I'll do my best."

"Oh, thank you. I'll go now." Dorothy slipped off the mitten and gravely tendered her hand to the lawyer. He rose and bowed over it with more ceremony than he had for many years shown any other member of her sex.

Dorothy flashed a confiding smile at him and tripped jauntily away through the outer office, much to the surprise of Wilson, who was now at his post. Wilson was still more surprised that afternoon when on going into the lawyer's private room he found him putting his desk in order and was waved away with: "Don't bother me with that now. It's such a fine afternoon I think I'll take a walk and look at that Dorren property."

Wilson went back to his desk. He furtively watched the lawyer as the latter put on overcoat, hat and gloves. It was the first time within his knowledge that Cyril had set aside an important matter. What had happened?

The lawyer walked on with rapid stride. There was in the air a suggestion of the spring which was not yet near.

On the corner an organ grinder was playing popular airs. A little farther on a flower vender was offering bouquets of violets for sale. The scent of the flowers floated up to him, and the memories awakened earlier in the day by a pair of childish eyes were again stirred. Cyril bought one of the fragrant purple clusters, fastening it in the lapel of his coat with a smile. When had he done such a thing?"

As he walked along his glance fell upon a lamppost bearing the name "Rose Crescent."

A sudden remembrance came to him of his little visitor of the morning. That was where she had said she lived. He recalled his promise to do what he could for her aunt. Why not call upon her and find out her fitness for the position? He paused to glance up and down the street.

But the child had not told him her aunt's name or their number. Then it was useless to consider it further. Still he would like to please that child.

He was walking on when he heard a flying of small feet behind him and his name called. He turned around to see his little visitor of the morning.

"Oh," she exclaimed, "I was at the window and saw you passing. I thought perhaps you were coming to see us."

"Well," said Cyril, smiling, "you did not tell me your number."

"I forgot," she laughed. "It's in here." They had been walking back, and now she stopped in front of a modest house standing back from the street.

"Come in," she said. "Auntie's just got home. I didn't tell her about it yet."

Cyril followed her up the garden path and into the house. She led him into a room opening off a small hall. A lady seated before an open fire rose at his entrance. She was not very young, but she was very sweet looking, with great brown eyes.

"Madam," began Cyril, "I"—

He broke off abruptly, looked bewildered, then ejaculated, "Rebecca Powers—you!"

"Cyril! Why"—

"You see, auntie, I went to see Mr. Moore about that school. I was afraid you'd be too late, and"— began Dorothy.

But neither her aunt nor the lawyer seemed to hear her. The latter was saying, "She has eyes like yours."

"You see, auntie," began Dorothy once more, but stopped as Cyril spoke again. "To find you here!" His face was flushed, and his eyes were shining. There was a bright color in the cheeks of Dorothy's aunt too. Dorothy was looking at her in surprise. Why, she knew Mr. Moore. Then she would surely get that school.

"Are you still Rebecca Powers? When I saw you last I thought that you were going to marry"—

Miss Powers interrupted him quietly.

"You were mistaken, but I remember you had a bad habit in those days of jumping at conclusions."

"That one has cost me dear—all these lonely years," he said.

He took the bunch of violets from his coat. "I remember you were always fond of violets, Rebecca. Are you still?" He held the fragrant blossoms toward her, and Miss Powers, after a glance into his face, took them from his hand. She held them to her lips a moment, then fastened them carefully in her bosom.

Dorothy was becoming impatient, but to her great amazement just then Cyril stooped down and kissed her aunt.

Then he turned to Dorothy. "I am going to ask your aunt to take charge of one pupil," he said—"one who needs her very much."

"One pupil!" exclaimed Dorothy. "Why, I"—

But again neither her aunt nor the lawyer seemed to hear her.

The Caddie Had the Ball.

A very curious incident occurred in a golf tournament at Shinnecock hills. I was playing the final with Jerome D. Travers. Going to the eighteenth hole his tee shot was slightly pulled a few yards off the fairway. The ball was headed directly for one of the Shinnecock Indian caddies, who was slowly walking away uphill. In its descent it was plainly seen by the gallery to strike the caddie, who perceptibly winced but continued walking.

Arriving at the spot, comparatively open, a careful and prolonged search was made, but no ball.

Finally some one suggested that the caddie be brought. He stoutly denied that he has seen a ball or had been struck by one.

Passing his hands over him, John M. Ward at length felt something in the Indian's hip pocket, and, lo and behold, there was the ball! And the boy didn't even know it was there. Of that I'm convinced.—Walter J. Travis in American Golfer.

NEIGHBORLY LOVE.

I love my neighbors as myself,
There's no mistake,
For I have loaned them when they came
With vows that they'd return the same
My garden spade,
My sickle blade;
Also my garden rake.

And unto others we are told
That we should do
As we'd be done by. That command
I have observed to beat the band,
For others hold,
If it's not sold,
My barrow new.

My lawn mower is three blocks away.
My razor hone,
My oil can and my paint brush, too,
I've loaned, and they were good as new.
By this—ahem—
My love for them
Is plainly shown.

A BASHFUL LOVER.

The Professor Was a Shy Wooer, but Finally Got the Lady.

Dr. Haldane, at one time a professor of St. Andrews university, was a very shy man. This latter failing prevented him from asking any lady to become his wife until he was well advanced in life.

However, he plucked up courage one day, redecorated his house and went to call on the object of his affections.

The lady, seeing the doctor's embarrassment, opened fire. "Weel, doctor, hae ye got through a' your papering and painting yet? I'm told your new carpets are just beautifu'. They say the pattern o' the dining room chairs is just quite out o' the way. In short, that everything aboot the house is just perfect."

Here was a providential opening he was not such a goose as to overlook. He advanced his chair, sidled toward her, simpering the while, raised his eyes furtively to her face and said, with a gentle inflection of his voice which no ear but a willfully deaf one could have misinterpreted: "Na, na, Miss Jane, it's no quite perfect. It canna' be quite that so long as there's one thing wanting!"

"And what can that be?" asked the imperturbable spinster.

Utterly thrown on his beam ends by her willful blindness to his meaning, the poor doctor beat a hasty retreat, drew back his chair from its dangerous proximity, caught up his hat and in tones of blighted hope gasped forth his declaration in these words: "Eh, dear, eh! Well I'm sure! The thing wanting is a—a—a—sideboard."

However, she married him after all.—London Answers.

THE WORD "FELLOW."

Its Course From the Universities Into Everyday Life.

The word bachelor means originally "cowboy," a youth who looked after the cow, from the low Latin bacca and through the classical Latin vacca. In course of time the term was given in scorn to voluntarily unwedded men by ladies who had sharp tongues. The word was taken over by the universities in the middle ages, and the degree of bachelor was not supposed to be given to any man who had entered into the state of matrimony.

The word "fellow" has had a somewhat similar fate as far as the ladies and the universities were concerned. The universities of Oxford and Cambridge to name but two, grant fellowships worth from $1,500 to $3,000 per annum at the various colleges to unmarried honor graduates of high distinction. If a fellow should enter into matrimony he still loses or forfeits his fellowship. As the "fellows" were generally men of apparent opulence or at least comfort in regard to living and dress, they readily attracted the attention of ladies who were thinking of settling down in life. When an acquaintanceship was formed between a "fellow" and a marriageble lady things usually went very delightfully until the fair schemer discovered the academic status of the man. Then the expression "Pooh, he is a fellow!" came very naturally to her lips. And so it crept into secular or lay life and begat its unkind meaning. But, of course, if the graduate was willing to sacrifice his fellowship and its emoluments for the sake of the fair lady's lovely eyes and favors—why, he became a "good fellow," which is a horse of a totally different color.—New York World.

What Ma Said.

A gentleman and his son were walking down a street the other day. As they passed by the eye hospital the son said:

"What is that place, dad?"

"That, my son," he replied, "is the ophthalmic hospital."

"What's that for?" the little fellow inquired.

"Why," the father said, "that is for people who suffer with their eyes."

"Why don't you go there?" he asked his dad.

"I don't have any trouble with my eyes. Why should I go there?"

The son then answered:

"I heard ma tell the next door neighbor that you were nearly blind last night."

Now his ma won't let him go out with his father any more.—London Tit-Bits.

How She Traveled.

"How did the queen of Sheba travel when she went to see Solomon?" asked a Sunday school teacher.

"Could she have gone by the railway?"

The applications of John R. Welch, Emile Allerand and Ambrogio Ramaccotti for liquor licenses in the first township were laid over until the next meeting on motion of Casey.

At the request of Geo. C. Ross the matter of closing a portion of the Bear Gulch road near the Folger place was continued to the next meeting of the board. This was done to give the County Surveyor an opportunity to be present.

F. B. Adams presented a petition asking for a transfer of his liquor license from San Pedro Terrace to Long Bridge. Blackburn moved that the request be granted but the motion failed a second and the chairman deferred the matter to the next meeting.

Gen. Geo. S. Evans, W. R. C., sent a communication expressing its thanks for the recent donation to be used in the improvement of the Soldier's burial plot in Union cemetery.

Donald McKenzie, the courthouse superintendent, addressed a communication to the board advising that the concrete for the roof and flooring of the building be increased from 3 1-2 to 4 1-2 inches in order to properly cover and protect the tubing and conduits that have been laid in those portions of the building. The communication was referred to the building committee who reported favorably on the proposition. A contract was entered into with the O'Brien Contruction Co., whereby the firm is to supply 3,166 cubic feet of concrete at a cost of $1490.

A letter was read from the North San Mateo Improvement Association requesting that C. E. Montgomery be appointed poundmaster and deputy sheriff for Vista Grande. The letter was referred to Casey and the sheriff to report at the next meeting.

H. O. Heiner presented a map of sub-divisions 7 and 8 of Granada in the Fourth township which was accepted with the usual reservation regrading the streets, on motion of Blackburn.

A communication was received from the Ocean Shore Railroad Company signifying its willingness to change the route of the county road at Long Bridge in the Fourth township providing the county secures the necessary right of way.

Frances thought it would be possible to acquire the necessary ground and a change in the roadway would be an improvement. The matter was referred to Frances to be reported on at the next meeting.

A communication from the Associated Charaties of San Francisco asking aid for one L. Garaventi was referred to Casey.

Annie Darcey, a widow of Colma, who is in indigent circumstances, applied for aid and was granted $8 per month, on motion of Casey.

H. H. Davis sent a written complaint as to the condition of the road leading to his ranch on the mountain. Mr. McEvoy stated that the road referred to was a private one and the clerk was directed to so inform Mr. Davis.

A communication was read from the Automobile Club of San Francisco in reference to the boulevard in the first township. As that road had already been repaired the communication was ordered filed.

A letter was received from the Game and Fish Commission of Santa Clara county requesting that the board shorten the season for killing deer, fixing the season from August 1st, to October 1st. The matter was deferred until the next meeting when an ordinance will be adopted shortening the season.

Attorney Kincaid addressed the board and presented two numerously signed protests against the establishment of a fire district at San Bruno. He stated that in spite of the board's order at the last meeting the commissioners theretofore appointed were going on with the work of forming the district.

J. H. Kirk was sworn and testified that only ten of the signers of the petition asking for the establishment of a fire district were on the assessment roll.

Tax Collector McCracken, also sworn testified that less than fifty were on the roll.

Mr. Kirk stated that a volunteer fire department had been formed which would serve the needs of the town at present.

Mr. Kincaid stated that through the insufficiency of the original petition the board had not acquired jurisdiction and he asked that the action toward forming a fire district at San Bruno be recinded.

A. A. La Roux and others spoke in opposition to such a course.

District Attorney Bullock, when called upon stated that the term "taxpayer" applied to those who are on the last assessment roll of the county.

After considerable discussion the matter went over until the next meeting.

H. O. Heiner, who at the last meeting had been authorized to inquire into the right of the Spring Valley Water Co to maintain its flumes at San Bruno, reported that the company had acquired its right while the road in question was a toll road. There is nothing in the record to show that the county had ever acquired possession of the thoroughfare.

Chairman McEvoy called attention to the fact that no arrangements had been made for anu office in the court house building for the Coroner and Public Administrator. The architect was directed to convert one of the rooms of the sheriff's office for that purpose.

Judge Fitzpatrick asked what disposition had been made of the complaint against the Spring Valley flume at San Bruno. He was informed that the matter had been passed to the next meeting. He suggested that the question be submitted to the District Attorney. He was certain that official would report that the company had rights in the matter which could not be disturbed.

Geo. C. Ross, representing the First National Bank asked that the balance of the claim of John Nealis, amounting to $490.70, be paid to the bank, to which Nichols had assigned his entire claim of $3497.35. He maintained that the E. B. & A. L. Stone Company, which had protested the payment of Nealis' claim on account of his indebtedness to them of $470.90, had their remedy in Nealis' bond, and if they had failed to avail themselves of it it was their fault .

M. Ross presented a resolution, and same was adopted, agreeing to protect the county, against loss or expense through suit or any other reason, and agreeing in case of an adverse judgment, to reimburse the county.

On motion of Coleman seconded by Blackburn the original claim was allowed in full.

Coleman refused to consent to the payment of the claims of Rainey & Phillips for stonework on account of the failure of the latter to settle the claim of Victor Mitchell for anchors furnished by him, and the bills were laid over.

Burrell G. White was granted permission on motion of Coleman, seconded by Blackburn, to excavate the county road in the Second township, north of Redwood City for the purpose of laying a sewer and gas main to connect with the White Oaks tract.

Frances explained to the board that he was informed that the wiring could be installed for the intercommunicating phone system for $500 less than was offered at the last meeting of the board. The matter was referred to the chairman.

The board accepted an invitation of the Automobile Club of California to be the guests of that organization at their good roads meeting which will be held at Del Monte June 26 and 27. Similar invitations have been extended by the club to the supervisors of San Francisco, Alameda, Santa Clara, Santa Cruz, San Benito and Monterey counties. Good roads will be the topic of discussion on the evening of June 26, the club and their guests taking in the 17 mile drive with a barbecue at Pebble beach on the following day.

W. R. Smith, better known as "Billy" Smith, was committed to the Napa Insane asylum by Judge Lennon on Thursday. Smith practiced law in Redwoodd City from 1865 to late in the seventies. He made the campaign for Superior Judge against Horace Templeton and was defeated. He finally drifted to San Francisco spending the greater portion of his time on the water front. After the fire he drifted back to San Mateo county and was taken to the Poor Farm where he has since remained. His once brilliant mind is now a blank and owing to his advanced age, he being nearly 80 years old, he will likely spend his few remaining years in the asylum. Old timers willl remember Billy Smith as a pleader in the courts of this county 40 years ago. His downward career began with political disappointments.

Funeral of Mrs. Elizabeth D. Kuck---Fire Does Small Damage---Another New Automobile.

The wanton murder on the public streets of Palo Alto last Monday has again brought the College town into the lime light. Notwithstanding its classic atmosphere and alleged refinement of its people more murders and crime have been committed there than in any town on the peninsula. The murder last Monday was cold blooded and horrifying in the extreme. A more cruel homicide would not be witnessed in a frontiers town in the early mining days, yet Palo Alto boasts of its civilization, higher education and refinement. Why only a short time ago a man named Rodgers butchered his wife on her own door step The murder was the most revolting in the criminal jurisprudence of the state. A little over a year ago a student was shot down in his tracks while entering his boarding house and this is the place, just in the shadow of the great Stanford University, where God-fearing people are asked to locate and raise their children and educate them in the university. We wonder what will the College town do next to keep her in the forefront?

A small dwelling belonging to B. Blanchard was destroyed by fire Sunday evening. The blaze started from an explosion of a gasoline stove. The fire alarm was rung in and the fire boys succeeded in saving adjoining buildings They were handicapped in not having sufficient hose but worked with odds against them and soon had the flames under controll. An adjoining building belonging to William Hammerson was some what injured but being insured Mr. Hammerson was given $405 by the insurance company. The blaze demonstrated that more interest should be taken in the fire department to the end that it be better equipped and be capable of coping with any conflagration.

Miss Elizabeth Boardman, the music teacher and at one time a resident of Fair Oaks, was married recently to Mr. Ellis, a rancher, at Mayfield. The couple are residing at Palo Alto.

The engagement is announced of Miss Flornece Breckenridge and Dr. Stein, an eminent physician of Berlin. The wedding will take place early in the fall in San Francisco. The home of the young couple, however, will be at Berlin, The handsmoe bride to be is the daughter of Mrs. Fred Sharon. She spent last season at her mother's summer home at Universiyt Heights. Mrs. Elizabeth D. Kuck, after an illness of two months, passed peacefully away surrounded by her loved ones Saturday morning last. She had been troubled with an affection of the heart for over two years and despite all that medical aid could do she could not get any permanent cure. She was attended, during her illness, by Dr. Harry Reynolds. The night before her death Dr. Galloway was called in consultation but could do nothing to prevent the threatened dissolution. The funeral took place Thrsdauy noon in a private car to Cypress Lawn Cemetery where she was laid to rest.. Mrs Kuck was born in Germany 68 years ago but came to the United States when quite young. Just 40 years ago she was wedded to Martin Kuck, who survives her. The couple opened the Menlo Park Hotel here shortly after wards and conducted it until 1870 when they moved to Redwood City to engage in mercantile business there In the early 80's they again conducted the Menlo Park Hotel and have remained here ever since. In the death of Mrs. Kuck her family have sustained an inestimable loss and the community a good woman. She was devoted to her family and home surroundings. Her one thought was the wellfare of her daughters who will miss the wise counsel and words of sympathy. Mrs. Kuck was beloved by all her neighbors for her many womanly virtues and for her kindness and sympathy for others in times of sickness and distress. She leaves to mourn her, besides her husband, three daughters, Bertha, Tillie and Martha Kuck.

Hunters are Careless.

Thursday noon someone presumably shooting squirrels on the White Oaks tract, fired a bullet through the screen door on the back porch of C. G. Landscheit's residence in Wellesley Park which in its travels passed through the center of a bed room door and finally embedded itself in the plaster wall. Mr. Landdscheit's little son, 5 years old, was standing on the porch at the time, and a few inches lower would probably have resulted in a tragedy, and a fews minutes earlier would have struck Mrs.Landscheit who was standing at that time right by the door. Sheriff Chatham is investigating the case, and if the offender is found an endeavor will be made to severely punish him, so as to deter others who are altogether too careless in their use of firearms around the residences.

GO TO THE RESCUE.

Don't Wait till It's Too Late—Follow the Example of a Redwood City Citizen.

Rescue the aching back.
If it keeps on aching, trouble comes.
Backache is kidney ache.
If you neglect the kidneys' warning,
Look out for urinary trouble—diabetes.

This Redwood City citizen will show you how to go to the rescue.

C. J. Bettin, living at 607 Cedar st., Redwood City, Cal., says: "Some eight or ten years ago I slipped and strained my back and from that time on I was more or less troubled by a dull, heavy pain across my loins and kidneys. Seeing Doan's Kidney Pills highly advertised, I procured a box and commenced using them. They went directly to the seat of my trouble, strengthening my back and regulated the action of the kidney secretions. I can say that the claims made for this remedy were proved true to me."

Assessor's Instructions

To Owners of Real Estate and Personal Property.

The law requires each and every person who owns any class of property to annually, during the months of March, April or May, file a statement with the Assessor or his deputy in the county where the property is located. You should give a statement of all property owned by you on the first Monday in March at 12 o'clock m.

If you hold mortgages against others send in a mortgage statement showing amount due on each mortgage on the first Monday in March at 12 o'clock m.

No change can be made by the Assessor after he turns his books over to the Board of Supervisors on the first Monday in July. The Boards then sets as a Board of Equalization during the month of July.

Remember, if you fail to give in your assessment you fail to comply with the law and may cause yourself, the Assessor and Tax Collector much trouble, and very likely cause yourself expense.

It is much more satisfactory to the Assessor, as well as to yourself, to have your assessment correct when you go to pay your taxes.

C. D. HAYWARD,
Assessor, San Mateo County.
